Here, we show that in the zebrafish, two iPLA2-VIA isoforms exist, iPLA2-VIAa and iPLA2-VIAb. In the embryos of this study, the onset of iPLA2-VIAa expression occurs at around 4 days post fertilization, at the neurula stage, while iPLA2-VIAb is expressed at the beginning of the segmentation stage, just before hatching. The expression of iPLA2-VIAa and iPLA2-VIAb overlaps in the hindbrain, midbrain/hindbrain boundary region, and the dorsal fin fold. Both isoforms are found in ectodermal cells of the head and the dorsal fins. In addition, iPLA2-VIAa is present in photoreceptor cells of the developing eyes. When induced by nocodazole, iPLA2-VIAb, but not iPLA2-VIAa, is expressed in the developing retina and optic tectum. The iPLA2-VIAb-induced cells in the tect
